

Date Coding on Coopers Unhopped Malt Extracts & Brewing extracts

Coopers Unhopped Malt Extracts are stamped with a batch date that can refer back to the production date. They will keep in usable condition indefinitely, although some darkening of the colour may occur over time. This darkening can be accelerated by heat.

Coopers Brewing Extracts (Hopped Malt Extracts) are stamped with a Best Before date, which is two years after the production date. The extract inside will keep in usable condition indefinitely, although some darkening of the colour may occur over time. This darkening can be accelerated by heat. However the yeast sachets contained under the lid have an expiry date of 2 years and therefore we place a Best Before date on the cans.
